Buying legally: making sure it's above board

Before buying cultural property, do your research.

The seller

- > Verify the identity of the seller.
- > Buy from a member of a professional trade association.

The object

Check the object against:

- > The Movable Cultural Heritage Prohibited Exports Register.
- > The databases of stolen art such as:

The Art Loss Register

www.artloss.com

Nazi Looted Art

www.lootedart.com

INTERPOL's Stolen Works of Art

Documentation

Check any documentation about the history of the object, for example:

- > Is there a history of ownership relating to the object?
- > Is there a certificate of authenticity?
- > Is there a condition report available?
- > If the object comes from a foreign country is there an export permit?
- > If you buy the object ensure that you have a written invoice, signed and dated by the seller, with their name, address and full details of the object.
