About this book

This book is written by the Department of Communications and the Arts.

When you see the word we it means the government.

This book is a discussion paper about our plan for arts and disability in Australia.

A discussion paper is information about our plan that you can ● read

● think about.

After you read the discussion paper you can tell us your ideas.

There is more information about how to tell us your ideas at the end of this discussion paper.
What are the arts?

In our plan the arts means

● all types of art
  – for example, film and dance

● places where art is made or shown – for example, galleries and museums.

We made our last plan in 2009.

There have been lots of changes in the arts since 2009.
What has changed in the arts?

People with disability have helped to make changes in the arts.

Art groups have new ways to help people with disability to
- be part of the arts community
- make good art
- show good art to people in Australia and overseas
- work in the arts.

The National Disability Insurance Scheme or NDIS has changed how people with disability do art.

We want our plan to show changes that have happened in the arts.
What is disability?

In our plan disability means

- all types of disability

- things that make it hard for people to be part of their community.

Some people do not feel they have a disability.

For example, Deaf people.

We want ideas from everyone.
This discussion paper has 4 parts

Part 1 is about your story and ideas.

Part 2 is about how you engage with the arts.

For example, how you

- practise art
  - practise means how people work in the arts

- express yourself with art
  - express means how people enjoy art

- connect with the arts
  - connect means how people see different types of art.

Part 3 is about our plan and changes in the arts.

Part 4 is about disability and the arts in Australia.
Part 1 Your story and ideas

We want to hear ideas from lots of people.

For example

- people with disability

- carers and families of people with disability

- people who work in places where art is made or shown

- disability groups

- education groups

- people who work in the arts

- anyone with ideas about arts and disability.
We also want to hear ideas from

- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people
- people who live in regional or remote areas
- young people
- older people
- people who have different
  - cultures
  - languages
  - genders
  - sexualities.
Part 2 How you engage with the arts

How you practise art

People who practise or work in the arts are called professional artists.

Professional artists might not be paid workers.

We want to hear about

- how you found out about art
- how you make art
- your art goals.
Tell us your story

If you are an artist with disability we want to hear your story.

For example, you might tell us

- work you have done in the arts

- how you show your art

- if you get paid for your art

- if you have other jobs

- things that make it hard to practise in the arts.
You might also tell us

- the help you get to work in the arts

- if the National Disability Insurance Scheme or NDIS helps

- if art groups help

- if employment groups help

- if disability groups help

- your art goals.
We also want to hear from disability and art groups.

You might tell us about how your group

● teaches artists with disability

● helps artists with disability make and show their art

● helps people with disability to be part of the arts community

● works with other groups to give people access to art

● helps artists with disability to be leaders.
You might also tell us

- what you need to help people with disability access the arts

- if the NDIS has changed how your group works

- how the government helps people with disability to work in the arts.

How you express yourself with art

You might do art because you enjoy it.

You might go to art groups to

- learn about art

- meet people

- feel better.
Tell us your story

If you do art because you enjoy it we want to hear your story.

For example, you might tell us

● where you go to enjoy the arts

● how art makes you feel

● technology you use to enjoy art

● art programs you would love to do

● how the NDIS has changed things

● the changes you have seen in the arts

● what makes it hard to do art programs.
We also want to hear from disability and art groups.

You might tell us

- how your group helps people with disability enjoy the arts

- how your group works with other groups to help people enjoy art

- what your group needs to help more people with disability enjoy art

- how the NDIS has changed your group

- how government programs help people with disability to enjoy art.
How you connect with art

You might connect with different types of art. For example, when you

- read a book
- watch a movie
- listen to music
- see a concert
- see an art show
- watch art on technology
  - for example, your computer.
Good things happen when you connect with art.
For example, you might

● enjoy the art

● meet friends

● feel good

● have a better life.

We want to make sure people with disability can connect with lots of different types of art.

We want Australians to see different types of art made by people with disability.
Tell us your story

If you like to connect with the arts we want to hear your story.

For example, you might tell us

- how you find out about art events and which events you choose
- when you go to art events
- what makes a good art event
- when you feel welcome at art events
- things that make it easy to go to art events
- if you have seen people with disability lead art events
- if you volunteer at art events and why.
We also want to hear from disability and art groups.

You might tell us

- how people with disability find out about your art events.
- how your group works with other groups to help people connect with the arts
- what makes an art event good for people with disability
- how people feel when they see work by artists with disability
- how your arts programs might help people feel better
- how government programs help people with disability to connect with art.
Part 3 Our plan and changes in the arts

We believe everyone in Australia has human rights.

Human rights are things everyone should be able to

- get
- have
- do.

Our plan about the arts is part of a bigger plan to make sure people with disability

- live in accessible communities
- are part of their community
- have the same choices as everyone else.
The National Arts and Disability Strategy was written in 2009.

The goals were to

- give people with disability better access to the arts
- make it easy for people with disability to work in the arts
- find new ways to show art made by people with disability
- get people with disability to help make the plan.
Part 4 About disability and the arts in Australia

● people with disability in Australia
