I live in a rural and remote area where the arts are extremely limited. It would be great to have more music, theatre/drama and the visual arts represented by traveling shows and programs which promote artists and the arts in rural areas. We are malnourished culturally. Orana arts has been in our area for many years but it is close to never that we see the benefits of having someone represent the arts in our area. It would be great if the arts and local artist could be supported in events, workshops, exhibitions and community events.
