I work between 2 worlds art and craft. Im an artist jeweller.

The problem with art and culture is everyone else gets paid but the artist/knowledge holder of the culture. You pay bureaucrats who make aesthetic decisions or cultural without any understanding or training or knowledge. As an artist Im expected to pay to enter a submission for a show. It's all backwards. People 'installed' as administrators make decisions around arts and culture with a degree in business or accounting. You want a cultural policy? Focus on those that know....nepotism doesnt stop for Christmas!!
