

National Cultural Policy Submission

1469778

Public and anonymous

Short submission (text box 500 words or less)

My position is that the policy should place greater emphasis on the written work of Australians. Books are the basis of so much modern art and culture. They are the intergenerational archive of thoughts, opinions and the passing on of context. Our nation does little to support authors and it is time we did support authors. Our market is too small for commercial success so we must capture our stories for future generations of Australians.