I work as a library officer and our adult fiction books have a sticker on the spine if they are an Australian author. It would be great to see some kind of made in Australia symbol for books that means creatives are Australian (even if printed overseas) for all books, including picture books and junior fiction and non fiction.

I would like to see support for cheaper printing in Australia for self publishers.

As a self publishing author it would be great to see an increase in eligibility for funding and other opportunities for self published authors and independent publishers

With AI - maybe symbol to say AI not used on books so people know what they are buying.

As a teacher it would be great for an increase in school funding for author visits.
